Mr. Henry Rowen, chairman National Intelligence Council Central Intelligence Agency Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Mr. Rowen:

As you may know, our quarterly WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT gives a country-by-country analysis of what the Soviet Union is saying and doing. The attachment describes the computerization of the complete text, a major operation which is now almost completed. This means that the text will be available at terminals throughout the world, a facility which should be valuable to U.S. missions everywhere.

I suggest that U.S. missions should have complete files of the WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT, since, except for spotchecking the printed text is easier to read and consult.

We try to follow everything we can on Soviet activities around the globe, and we notice that relevant C.I.A. reports are regularly declassified. For example, the summary of the recent report on the Soviet economy suggests it is a balanced and important contribution.

The question is: is there any way we can be put on a mailing list to receive such reports about Soviet activities as they are released? I assume, for example, that UPI is on such a list.

We are grateful for any help we can receive, since the scholars preparing the WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT do so as a public service, without any remuneration.

Soviet Activities Monitored

The California Institute of International Studies, with its offices at Stanford, California, publishes the quarterly WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT, which gives an area by area and country by country analysis of Soviet activities around the world and of Soviet interpretations of world events, based on Soviet and other sources. It is now in its eleventh year.

The Institute has signed a contract with Dialog, the largest information retrieval system in the world; in all some 14,000 terminals are connected with it.

Dialog will put all the back issues on line, and then keep up the computerization of the issues as they appear.

This means that all around the world subscribers will be able to retrieve information about any aspect of international affairs in which the Soviet Union is involved.

Work on the back volumes is now proceeding. Another announcement will be issued when it is completed.

This is the first time the complete text of a scholarly or scientific journal has been put on line.

For other journals, only bibliographical references or at best abstracts are given, so that the researcher must go back to the journal for the complete text.

Since this is an innovation, many technical problems have to be solved, but the model provided by the WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT may be useful for other journals.

Since each issue of the WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT has well over 100 pages, the task is substantial, but the work of researchers will be reduced enormously.

The annual subscription to the WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT is $13 for individuals and $16 for institutions or foreign subscribers

Complete sets of the first ten volumes are available for $100.

Reprinted from PS, published by the American Political Science Association.

The first ten volumes will be broken down into about 20,000 records, each covering a different subject.

The WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT will be available on DIALOG's Classroom Instruction Program for use in courses on international relations and related subjects, as well as research projects.

STAT

REPORT, VOL. 12, NO. 3, 1982

The California Institute of International Studies publishes the quarterly WORLD AFFAIRS REPORT

The main feature of the World Affairs Report is "International Report: The World as Seen from Moscow." It analyzes the Soviet version of world developments, based on Soviet as well as non-Soviet sources. It brings out the divergence between Western and Soviet accounts of international affairs, as well as the Soviet role in the world.

Interpreting Soviet statements on international affairs is complex. The press and scholarship are not viewed in the Soviet Union as having the verification and analysis of facts as their primary objective. The marketplace of ideas does not exist. The press is an important cog in a propaganda machine, the aim of which is to promote the cause of Muscovite communism. Sometimes facts are brought out which the Western press fails to mention. Sometimes the Soviet press is silent on atrocities because they are committed by a regime (even a reactionary regime) with which the Soviet Government has made a deal, or hopes to make one. Talk is silver, silence is golden.

There is a childish naivete in the hard, unyielding statements of the Soviet press: the Soviets and their friends are noble, generous achievers; their rivals are rapacious, ignoble exploiters to whom no credit must be given. The World Affairs Report does not concern itself with the fulsome self-praise but with the less friendly reports on countries outside the Soviet system. We should know that the Soviet Union is saying about us and our friends. Even though we may be shocked or offended, we should not live in a fool's paradise.

These analyses do not lead automatically to recommendations about the course the United States should follow in its dealings with the Soviet Government. They certainly are not intended to discourage the development of ties with Moscow. They do, however, suggest forcefully that we should proceed with our eyes open.

The sections of the report are arranged geographically on an area-by-area and country-by-country basis, each country having a number; the key is given on the inside front cover. A list of the abbreviations used is given on the inside back cover.

Articles appearing in the journal are abstracted and indexed in ABC Pol Sci, Historical Abstracts, I.B.Z. and I.B.R. A microfilm edition of the journal is available to subscribers only. The complete text of the World Affairs Report is put on line by DIALOG. The World Affairs Report may be quoted, providing acknowledgement is given. For lists of government figures, consult Current World Leaders.

Subscription rates: U.S. — Individual, $13 per annum; Institutional and foreign, $16 per annum. Airmail rates on request. Single issues, $4. Index to Volumes 1-5, $3.50. Complete sets of Volumes 1-10 are available for $100.
